

World of connected devices

We're living in a world where our we move from device to device fairly frequently. The thing that doesn't always happen is that we're free to move the data between devices