

or that just because modern desktop browsers are evergreen all browsers in both mobile and desktop environment are evergreen with frequent and automatic updates.

For example, Firefox supports service workers since version 44 but modules (without a flag) since version 60. If the application we develop requires service workers and we use the module version of cutting the mustard we've lost many users of Firefox because we decided it wasn't worth the effort.