

Sharing custom properties between CSS and Javascript

One crazy idea when using custom properties is to use them to store state and share that state between CSS and Javascript. CSS Tricks

For this to work we need to use basic custom properties since we want to treat all these state custom properties as text.